

IMPROVING UNDERSTANDING OF ALIGNMENT OF SOCIAL SERVICES, PUBLIC HEALTH, AND HEALTH CARE BY EXPLORING OUTCOMES IN ACCOUNTABLE COMMUNITIES FOR HEALTH

(Public Health Institute)

PROJECT SUMMARY

This study will explore collaboration and alignment among public health, health care, and social service sectors in 22 Accountable Communities of/for Health (ACHs) in California and Washington. The study will evaluate ways in which system context and collaboration dynamics shape outcomes in cross-sector collaboratives and develop recommendations for effective structures that support ACH collaboration and cross-sector alignment that result in improved health equity, positive systems change, and long-term sustainability.

A grantee of

ALIGNING SYSTEMS FOR HEALTH

Health Care + Public Health + Social Services

Areas of the Theory of Change

Purpose

Data

Financing

Governance

Stakeholders Involved

- Accountable Communities of/for Health
- Community members
- Local and state government